OPENING KEYNOTE PRESENTATION:

Five Pillars of Business
Dr. Stevie Dawn, CEO
Stevie Dawn Inspires, LLC

Being a business owner can be overwhelming. There is so much to do in areas that are not your strength. You became a consultant to serve, yet you also have to worry about invoicing, contractors and sales. Building a successful business requires you to work not only in your business, but also on your business. In this session, we will examine the Five Pillars of Business that you should be reviewing on a regular basis to ensure stability and growth. Participants will learn to:

- Identify the Five Pillars of Business and their impact
- Ask questions to discover pitfalls and obstacles
- Implement a business retreat process to keep your sanity and profit

As a motivational speaker and coach, Dr. Stevie Dawn is focused on helping people to unleash unstoppable success in their lives both personally and professionally. Her experience as a 4-time business owner, along with her work in the private and public sector, allows her to enhance her presentations with real life stories and examples that are applicable to every audience. Her educational background includes a master’s degree in sociology from Wichita State University and a doctorate in leadership from Colorado State University. With over 20 years of teaching and training experience, Dr. Stevie Dawn approaches every engagement with humor, inspiration, and energy to get people moving towards their best lives.

PRESENTATION: Thought Leadership for Philanthropic Counselors
Jeff Herrington, President
Jeff Herrington Communications

The people you hope to influence no longer read the way they did when you learned how to write. Or even the way they did just 10 years ago. In this session, Jeff Herrington will share several techniques that will make whatever thought leadership content you prepare more likely to connect with today’s distracted readers. You’ll walk away with a better understanding of the reader revolution that has taken place and how to respond to that revolution in your own thought leadership pieces, as well as any you produce for a client.

Early in Jeff Herrington’s career, he edited one of the regional magazines published by the National Association of Purchasing Management, the alumni magazine of Southern Methodist University, from which he earned his journalism degree, and the employee publications of Diamond Shamrock Corporation, an independent energy firm. Since then, he has traveled the world for companies like IBM, AT&T, Baxter Healthcare and United Technologies, writing articles for their employee and customer publications. Along the way, he’s interviewed a prime minister of New Zealand, the CEO of Argentina’s national oil company and France’s leading heart surgeon. His consulting expertise and writing workshops have been sought out by Coca-Cola France, Whirlpool, John Deere, Phillips 66, the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia and Intuit, among other organizations.

Position for Profit

Dr. Stevie Dawn, CEO

Stevie Dawn Inspires, LLC

Being the "best kept secret" is never a compliment. As a consultant, you want to be known. You want to be sought-after for your experience. This requires that you position yourself as an expert. The first step is to delineate where your expertise lies. Since positioning requires a set plan of marketing actions, we must create an action plan to position ourselves for the profit we want in our business. In this session, participants will learn to:

- Identify their specific expertise areas.
- Position themselves in the market to stand out to their target audience.
- Develop a profit pyramid that allows them to make a joyful amount.
